

Contact: Kelsey Pangborn
262.965.7333
kpangborn@threepillars.org

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Whodunit at Three Pillars

Theatrical murder mystery show features residents

Chorus girls Dusty, Betty Sue, and Dolly, played by residents Janet Zganjar, Suzanne Diesness, and Barbara Lee, strike a pose on set.

Dousman, WI. December 9, 2017 – On a Saturday night unlike any other at Three Pillars, a cast of 25 independent and assisted living residents performed in a riveting theatrical murder mystery show.

On performance night, attendees came in themed apparel to enjoy a western dinner, where the show began. Introductory lines and sing-alongs were sprinkled throughout the meal, which was followed by the full production. In a script written by Cindy Hubler, daughter of a resident, the story unfolded as Sheriff Longhair Virgil White quizzically investigated possible suspects in the murder of saloon owner Dandy Clark. After listening to the entertaining alibi stories which evoked many laughs, the audience received a final list of clues which pointed at the one character they least expected: Sister Lily White, the church woman.

In addition to writing the entire script, casting the characters, and directing the performance, Hubler and her husband Roy spent many months in preparation shopping for costumes, décor, and props to make the evening unforgettable.

“This is the highlight of our year, we absolutely love it,” commented Hubler. “We love seeing the residents’ smiles, we love hearing their laughs, and we just love working on everything. We’re so glad to do this.”

Will there be another murder mystery show in 2018? You can count on it, as Hubler’s already begun writing the script.

Lifestyle. Value. Trust.

Resident Kathy Swain pauses for a photo before watching the show.

Residents Gini Brown, John Gardner, and Judy Potter in character as church women and the Sheriff.

Resident Jim Naves as Butch Star, the Cowboy.

Residents Paul Lee, Donna Winters, Carol Arenz, and Stan and MaryAnn Jagow smile on stage.

###

For more information about this story or Three Pillars Senior Living Communities, please contact Kelsey Pangborn, Communication Strategist at 262.965.7333 or kpangborn@threepillars.org.

Lifestyle. Value. Trust.