Three Pillars' Masonic Center for Health & Rehabilitation Ranked Among Top Skilled Nursing Centers Nationwide

U.S. News & World Report issues recognition based on comprehensive analysis of nursing homes

Three Pillars' administrator of health services, Marge Gozdowiak, proudly shared the U.S. News & World Report "Best Nursing Home" award with residents and staff of the Masonic Center for Health & Rehabilitation.

Dousman, WI, March 26, 2018 – Three Pillars Senior Living Communities in Dousman was recently recognized by U.S. News & World Report as one of the best nursing homes for 2017-18. Of more than 15,000 skilled nursing facilities surveyed nationwide, Three Pillars ranked among the highest 15% to earn the “Top Performing” title.

U.S. News & World Report, a digital news and information company founded in 1933, is revered as the global authority in health care rankings. Since the inception of their nursing home ratings in 2009, they have aimed to arm consumers with objective data from national in-depth analyses so they're empowered to make well-informed decisions about skilled nursing care.

After evaluating more than 15,000 skilled nursing facilities nationwide last year, rankings were established on a five-level scale, ranging from “Poor” to “Top Performing.” Three Pillars ranked as “Top Performing” and earned the designation of Best Nursing Home, which is reserved for those who demonstrate appropriate use of key services and consistent performance in quality measures.
