NATIONAL NONPROFIT ORGANIZATION HONORS THREE PILLARS
Three Pillars selected for 2018 Excellence in the Workplace Award

Dousman, Wis. September 20, 2018—LeadingAge, a national nonprofit organization, and their Awards Committee has selected Three Pillars as the recipient of the National 2018 Excellence in the Workplace Award.

The award will be presented at the LeadingAge Annual Meeting in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania next month.

LeadingAge stated in their nomination that, “Three Pillars Senior Living Communities stands as evidence that a strong employee culture is the bedrock of success in achieving quality, professionalism and compassion in services for older adults.”

President & CEO, Mark Strautman is extremely happy for the team, “I am proud of what we have done as a team to create an exceptional work experience at Three Pillars. We are committed to continuously investing in our staff and their personal and professional success. They are the key to maintaining a strong workplace culture, which is instrumental to providing our residents with high-quality housing and services.”

According to Chief Human Resource & Compliance Officer, Kathy Bernaden, this award, “Recognizes our success in nurturing workplace excellence in numerous areas, including investment in our staff, workforce development practices, education, retention, and employee satisfaction. I am happy for our staff and our organization.”

LeadingAge is a nonprofit organization based out of Washington, DC whose mission is to be the trusted voice for aging. They have 6,000+ members. They are also part of the Global Aging Network, which spans 30 countries across the globe.
